

Rules On CFC Sales For Precharged Systems

Effective January 9, 1995 the United States EPA will begin enforcing their long published regulations restricting the sale of pre-charged split systems to only those contractors or companies who employ at least one technician certified to purchase and handle refrigerants. These named technicians must have been certified to do so by an EPA approved organization.

General Metals Mfg. & Supply Co. is now requesting and accepting all required paperwork to ensure full compliance for both you and your employees. Please send us a copy of your technician's EPA approved certification card as well as a list of company personnel authorized to accept delivery of pre-charged split systems in place of certified technicians.

IMPORTANT — As of early January, 1995, General Metals will sell pre-charged split systems ONLY to those customers that have provided us with at least one certification card for our files. Please fill out the following information about your company so that future sales transactions can be handled efficiently.

Date: _____

Company Name: _____

Street Address: _____

City/State/Zip Code: _____

Phone #: (_____) _____

Attached are EPA Certification Card(s) of the following named technicians:

Name: _____ Name: _____

Name: _____ Name: _____

Name: _____ Name: _____

The following named company personnel or their titles are authorized to pick up or accept delivery of pre-charged split systems:

Names/Title: _____

Names/Title: _____

Names/Title: _____

Print name of person submitting this information: _____

Signature of person submitting this information: _____